DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments, see Remarks, filed February 27, 2006, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 1-7 under 35 U.S.C. 102 have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of a newly found prior art reference.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Chen et al (U.S. Patent Application Publication No. 2003/0050617).

With respect to Claims 1,2,4,8,10,11: Chen teaches absorbent article 10 comprising liquid-pervious topsheet 12, liquid-impervious backsheet 14, and absorbent core 15 located substantially entirely between said topsheet 12 and backsheet 14. Absorbent core 15 is further comprised of lower, middle and upper absorbent members 22,20 and 18, respectively. Topsheet 12 contains apertures in the central region for increased fluid intake. These apertures could be in the shape of slits. Upper absorbent member 18 of core 15 also has outward spanning lines 76 in the form of slits and is disposed above central rising member 50 which flexes upward beyond the topsheet 12 to fit against the body of the user. Member 50 is considered herein to be insertable into (claim 10), and therefore also shaped for insertion into (claim 11), at least an immediate interior portion of a user's vagina, i.e. the vestibule. Central member 50 (claim 2) has a removed end capable of movement between a retracted and protracted position (Figs. 7A,7B) (¶¶ 0094,0120, 0122, 0132-0134) With respect to claim 4, middle and lower absorbent members 22,20 respectively define a second section located substantially beneath central rising member 50 (first section).

With respect to Claim 3: Chen teaches adhesive strips 70 disposed on the garment facing side of backsheet 14 for joining said napkin to a user's undergarment. (¶ 0130)

With respect to Claim 5: Chen teaches that central rising member 50 forms an inverted V-shape (expansion) when longitudinal sides 78 are moved inward toward the longitudinal centerline (i.e. projected position) and thus is also capable of a retracted position when said longitudinal sides 78 are pushed outward wherein the central rising member 50 would be compressed against the topsheet and absorbent core. (¶ 0133)

With respect to Claims 6,7: As can best be seen in Figs. 7A and 7B, Chen teaches both a central rising member 50 that assumes an inverted V-shape (Fig. 7A, substantially U-shaped) and a member 50 that assumes a rounded, or substantially cylindrical shape (Fig. 7B)

With respect to Claim 9: Chen teaches that central rising member 50 has elements attaching it to a horizontal wicking barrier 24 (Fig. 5) in the form of adhesives at either or both ends of said member. (¶ 0134) As can also be seen in Fig. 5, wicking barrier 24 lies directly under topsheet 12, therefore rising member 50 is considered herein to also be effectively hingeably attached to topsheet 12.
